hi howard,

happy new year to you too.

i am again puzzled. this is ggnra land and the ggnra is the land management agency for crissy field.

frankly, this is a non responsive answer. NEPA applies or not. what is the intent of this planning process?

the ggnra is the lead agency, the parks conservancy a non profit.

and the ggnra is in the process of updating their gmp. shouldn't this be part of that process?

what are the specific goals in mind here?

there is a reason why i asked nancy these questions, not the ggnra pr person.

thanks, martha

Hi Martha:

Happy 2014!

I understand you wanted to know how NEPA pertained to the meeting later this week to get input on ways to make Crissy Field even better.

This is not a NEPA meeting, but rather simply an opportunity to hear from users as to what they like about Crissy Field, and what ideas they have for improvements in the future. As and when some of these ideas become projects, any that are of scale or a degree of complexity to warrant NEPA review will receive it.

The costs for this meeting and this overall community input process is being borne by the Parks Conservancy, as part of their overall commitment to this amazing site.

Let me know if you have any other questions.

Best.

Howard
